“But regardless of the weather, it’s good for us to be here. It’s good for us to be together. All of us; as a church, as the people of God, as the Sisters of St. Basil, as our Hierarchical Clergy and all our wonderful Faithful,” Sister Susan said following the Hierarchical Divine Liturgy.

“We needed this. We needed this Pilgrimage; we needed to come together as a group of people to pray and to celebrate that faith that we hold so dear.”

With the theme, “Mother of Perpetual Help, Our Gentle Protectress,” portions of the Pilgrimage, which was cut back to one day over its usual three-day period over the Labor Day weekend, were streamed live to an internet audience for the first time in the history of the Pilgrimage.

The event holds the distinction of being the oldest and the largest Byzantine Catholic Pilgrimage in the country.

On Sept. 3, 1934 — Labor Day — about 3,000 faithful came by trains, chartered buses and cars for the blessing of the newly acquired home of the Sisters at Mount St. Macrina.

Many had gathered at St. John church on the other side of town, and they came in procession through the city of Uniontown carrying banners. Forty-two priests joined Bishop Basil Takach in the Divine Liturgy preceding the blessing.

Bishop Basil, with the permission of the Holy See and the enthusiastic support of the Sisters, decided to hold annual pilgrimages at Mount St. Macrina. This would also provide an opportunity for spreading devotion to the Mother of God under her title as...

Reflection from Mount St. Macrina

Glory to Jesus Christ!

We continue with the Beatitudes:

“Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness for they shall be satisfied.”

Well, “satisfaction.” We find ourselves these days saying, “If only I could. If only we could.” Yet, in these times, as the pandemic continues to be and to feel long, we are wishing for things to be different.

I want to raise our awareness that can help us spiritually. Think of this Beatitude: “Those who hunger and thirst for righteousness.”

Generally speaking, in this country, our nature is often quite well-satisfied. So, a sense of longing can be pretty rare, except in these times. Jesus is the fulfillment of all of our hungerings, our thirsts. But what if we’re not aware of them?

In this time, we can long for a greater love, peace, harmony, a new understanding. That might give us a sense of what it is to hunger and to thirst for righteousness.

What is righteousness? It’s the fullness of what God has to give us. We seek Him but sometimes we don’t remember. Actually, there is a God-sized hole in each of us and only our Lord HImself can fill it.

We can turn to Him with prayer, we can turn to Him in the Eucharist where He gives Himself to us, whether in the sacrament or spiritually if we can’t be in the church.

Jesus HImself said these words in John’s Gospel:

“Jesus stood up in the temple and exclaimed, “Let anyone who thirsts come to Me and drink. Whoever believes in Me, as Scripture says: ‘Rivers of living water will flow from within him.’” He said this in reference to the Spirit that those who came to believe in Him were to receive.

The fullness of spiritual life comes through our Lord Himself. When we have found that, let’s be aware of that satisfaction with others who still don’t know where to find fulfillment. Those, for instance, who are looking for love and goodness in all the wrong places. Those who are stuck on themselves, those who are condemnatory of others.

They need our help to find what life is all about hungering and thirsting for God, the only true fulfillment. God bless you.

Knights of Columbus support vocations to the Archeparchy

The late John Andrejko honored by Bethel Park School District

The Pennsylvania State Council of the Knights of Columbus presented a $5,288 check to the Archeparchy of Pittsburgh Aug. 26 to support vocations.

Michael P. Lynch, State Treasurer of the Pennsylvania State Council, presented the check.

On hand for the presentation were Father Kevin Marks, Vocation Director for the Archeparchy; Very Reverend Andrew Deskovich, Protosyncellus; Father Kevin Marks, Vocations Director; Michael Lynch, Pennsylvania Knights of Columbus State Council Treasurer, Metropolitan Archbishop William Skurla; Deacon Sean Petrisko; and Richard Miller.

Additionally, Metropolitan William Skurla was presented a copy of the Marian Icon of Pochaiv, Our Lady of the Assumption, Our Lady of the Rosary and Our Lady of Charity.

Byzantine Catholic Seminary of SS. Cyril and Methodius

The Bethel Park School District and Community Foundation honored the late John J. Andrejko Aug. 28 by dedicating in his honor the newly refurbished bell that sits just outside of the high school.

Andrejko, a giant of a man with an even bigger heart, worked at Bethel Park for more than three decades in a variety of administrative roles, where he impacted thousands of students.

Editor's note: He was also a founding member of St. Gregory in Upper St. Clair, Pa.

“It used to amaze me how many people would come up to my dad, no matter where we were — whether we were out to dinner or on vacation or wherever we were — and they would just pour their heart out to him just thanking him for all he did for them,” said his son, John Andrejko.

“Afterwards, I would say to him, ‘Dad, that was a really touching story. Who was that?’

“And he’d just shrug his shoulders and say, ‘I don’t know?’

“I think that shows what kind of a guy my father was and how he dealt with everyone,” said a visibly emotional younger Andrejko.

The bell, like Andrejko, symbolizes an important institution at Bethel Park.

In the late 1970s, the bell that once sat outside the old Bethel Township High School on Park Avenue was set to be destroyed before a group of preservation-minded students, guided by Andrejko, stepped in to first hide the bell and then pay for its refurbishment. That bell stood outside of Bethel Park High School until 2019, when it was donated to the Bethel Park Historical Society.

The new bell isn’t new at all and is actually of the same vintage as the bell that once sat outside the old schoolhouse. It even has an inscription that reads “Pittsburg,” which was an accurate spelling of the city’s name from 1891-1911, before the “h” at the end was permanently reinstated by the United States Board on Geographic Names.

School counselor, Jim Knapp, assistant superintendent; Dr. Zeb Jansante, and council president, Tim Mouy located the bell after an exhaustive search for the exact right replacement.

“We searched high and low for the new bell and we finally found it all the way down in Houston… Pennsylvania,” joked Dr. Jansante.

The bell was then sent to Michigan, where it was completely refurbished.

“That original bell represented Bethel Park’s unique tradition and John well understood that,” said Andy Amrhein, the director of the Bethel Park Community Foundation, which funded the new bell’s refurbishment.

“This new bell is an ideal way to honor that tradition and recognize someone who meant so much to so many people.”

The Fourth Commandment

Honor your father and your mother

By Father Vasyl Symyon

Assumption of the Mother of God, Winton, WI; Saint John the Baptist, Avella, Pa.

Dear Brothers and Sisters in Christ,

Glory to Jesus Christ! Glory to Him forever!

I will begin this article with a short story. A few years ago, a friend of mine and his family visited me and stayed at my house overnight. The parents had two children, one of which was a little more than one year old. I recall how much that small child cried during the night and how the mother had to care for him causing me to recount how many nights my mother and my father lost sleep because they had to care for my brother and me.

My parents sacrificed many hours, months and years to raise us properly. They taught us how to walk, talk, dress, read, be respectful and well-mannered and, most importantly, how to learn about and know God. How to love Him, trust Him and pray to Him for help and guidance.

In previous articles we reflected upon the first three of God’s Ten Commandments, which were reserved for God and His relationship with us. Now let us begin to meditate on the second part of the Decalogue, the last seven commandments which focus on people, their behavior in the community and their relationships with others.

Interestingly enough, the second part of the Ten Commandments begins with the Commandment “Honor your father and your mother that you may have a long life in the land the Lord your God is giving you” (Ex 20, 12). Yes, this is the first commandment in the second part of the Decalogue, which “speaks to” our relationships with our parents.

The Fourth Commandment uniquely includes a promise from God “that you may have a long life.” God assures every man and woman that if they respect their parents, He will bless them with a good and long life.

Your parents gave you life and for this gift of life you must express your appreciation as often as possible! How? By word, by deed and through prayer. Without your parents you would not exist in this world. Your development in your journey through life begins within the family. And your parents established that course as your first teachers, first helpers and first defenders.

As children grow and mature, however, they become more independent. The majority attend college, accept jobs, raise families, and foster leisurely relationships with friends and co-workers of similar age. In some instances, children ignore their parents because they do not have time for them. As parents age and require special care, their children place them in a good nursing home or assisted living facility but leave them “at the doorstep.” The specialized homes become “prisons” where parents are ignored. No family visits. No family phone calls.

Serious failure to care for aged parents, serious disrespect for them and failure to obey them are mortal sins against the Fourth Commandment. Therefore, please find time for your parents as often as you can. Do not forget about them! Please visit them, phone and talk to them, assist them with their wants and needs especially as they age. They may not directly ask for your help and attention, but they will appreciate it. Because they deserve it!

For the effort, time and toll they took to raise you, honor them in return by doing what is necessary to help them as you take responsibility for your life – and eventually their lives.

Also, I would like to remind you to pray for your parents whether living or deceased. In all of our churches we celebrate Divine Liturgies and pray for them. Therefore, any time is an excellent opportunity for you to offer an intention for a Divine Liturgy for your parents — for their birthdays, wedding anniversaries, in moments of sickness and after they have passed to the Lord.

Let us also remember our grandparents and give them the proper and well-earned respect for the special role they play in our lives. Our Holy Father Francis reminds us: “Grandparents are the link between the different generations, to pass on to the young the experience of life ... It is important for grandchildren to meet their grandparents and for grandchildren to meet their grandparents because as the prophet Joel states,”Grandparents, before their grandchildren, will dream and have illusions [great desires], and young people, taking strength from their grandparents, will go forward and prophesy.”

And because of the importance of grandparents in our lives, the Holy Father has established a World Day for Grandparents and the Elderly every fourth Sunday in July.

The Fourth Commandment also obligates us to offer proper respect to authorities, especially to our church authorities. That means appropriate reverence to the church fathers: our priests, bishops, cardinals and the pope. As our parents did for us in our youth, our spiritual fathers fostered our spiritual lives and nurtured our holiness. Be courteous to priests and bishops.

They perform many different duties that very often parishioners do not see and notice.

Without the church hierarchy (pope, cardinals, bishops, etc.), we would not have priests. Without priests, no one could dispense the holy sacraments to us. Who then would celebrate the Divine Liturgies, perform marriage ceremonies, baptize and confirm our children and hear our confessions? Who would distribute the Holy Eucharist, anoint the sick/dying and serve funerals?

Therefore, please respect your spiritual clergy at all levels and do not take them for granted! I understand how in today’s society people may criticize church ministers, but when was the last time you prayed for them? When was last time you asked your priest if he needed your help or support? So instead of criticizing and judging our spiritual fathers, please for them and lend them a helping hand!

Dear brothers and sisters in Christ, I conclude and summarize this article with the words from the Book of Sirach, which even after more than 2,000 years are still and always will be very suitable for all Christians to heed:

“For the Lord sets a father in honor over his children and confirms a mother’s authority over her sons. Those who honor their father alone for sins; they store up riches who respect their mother. Those who honor their father will have joy in their own children, and when they pray they are heard. Those who respect their father will live a long life, those who obey the Lord honor their mother. Those who fear the Lord honor their father and serve their parents as masters. In word and deed honor your father that all blessings may come to you. A father’s blessing gives a person firm roots but a mother’s curse uproots the growing plant. Do not glory in your father’s disgrace, for that is no glory to you! A father’s glory is glory also for oneself; they multiply sin who demean their mother. My son, be steadfast in honoring your father, do not grieve him as long as he lives. Even if his mind fails, be considerate of him and do not resect him because you are in your prime. Kindness to a father will not be forgotten; it will serve as a sin offering — it will take lasting root. In time of trouble it will be recalled to your advantage, like warmth upon frost it will melt away your sins. Those who neglect their father are like blasphemers; those who provoke their mother are accursed by their Creator” (Sirach 3:2-16).
Sunday, Sept. 19 was a beautiful sunny day as we gathered to celebrate the 50th Anniversary of St. Gregory in Upper St. Clair, Pa.

The celebration began with the procession led by St. Gregory’s Acolytes, the Knights of Columbus, and our ECF children. It concluded with clergy and the Most Rev. Metropolitan Archbishop William C. Skurla.

Following the traditional welcome with bread and salt, the Hierarchical Divine Liturgy commenced with our St. Gregory’s Chant Group leading the responses.

The entire Church, indoors and outdoors, was united in prayer, prayers of thanksgiving on this special day.

During his homily, Archbishop William said we must pick up our cross and follow after Christ to be worthy of the grace of God.

“That has taken place during the 50 years of celebration at St. Gregory in Upper St. Clair, starting with the holy celebration with the Knights of Columbus and the lower church and now to the upper church, a beautiful place to celebrate and give praise to God.”

Following the Hierarchical Divine Liturgy, the celebration continued with the Anniversary Banquet at the nearby Crowne Plaza Hotel.

St. Gregory’s Chant Group opened the evening with the hymn: “Save Your people, O Lord, and bless Your inheritance” followed by Our Father and the blessing of the food by our Metropolitan Archbishop.

Following the Anniversary Toast, dinner was served.

The evening continued with a special presentation given by our younger parishioners. It was exciting to witness our Library Ministry launch the third volume of St. Gregory’s Church History.

The dinner portion of the evening concluded with a special closing prayer.

We continued the evening with live music and dancing as we celebrated the 50th Anniversary of our wonderful parish family.
87th Annual Pilgrimage in Honor of Our Lady of Perpetual Help
“Mother of Perpetual Help, Our Gentle Protectress”
Sunday, September 5, 2021
Mount St. Macrina, Uniontown, PA.

“WE NEEDED THIS PILGRIMAGE”
— Sister Susan Sisko, Provincial, Sisters of the Order of St. Basil the Great

“We continue to need Our Lady’s help,”
Archbishop William Skurla said.
“With each Pilgrimage, we come with our needs and we pray to Our Lady of Perpetual Help to intercede with her Son to grant what we need.”

Archbishop William’s Hierarchical Divine Liturgy Homily

Welcome to the 87th annual Pilgrimage in honor of Our Lady of Perpetual Help at Mount St. Macrina in Uniontown, Pennsylvania. We also welcome our virtual pilgrims who for the first time are able to attend through the internet with livestream.

We thank Sister Susan Sisko, the Basilian Sisters, their associates, volunteers, staff, and workers who have again made this pilgrimage possible. It takes a full year to prepare for the pilgrimage. As we met, we selected the theme of “Our Lady of Perpetual Help Protectress” as our theme for this pilgrimage. The reason was obvious. We need protection from the pandemic, struggles in our country and church, and the floods and winds of the past month. We continue to need Our Lady’s help.

With each pilgrimage we come with our needs and we pray to Our Lady of Perpetual Help to intercede with her Son to grant what we need. We have the larger mosaic icon in the shrine, and we have the Icon of Perpetual Help.

which is carried in the processions during the Pilgrimage.

The original Icon of Our Lady of Perpetual Help was painted, or written, in the Byzantine style on the island of Crete. Iconographers do not sign their icons, but it is in the style of the 13th century. Some believe it is much older. It was transferred to the Rome by a merchant in 1499. It was later transferred to the Church of San Mateo where it was kept for three centuries.

Our processional Icon was presented by Pope Pius the Eleventh to Bishop Takach in 1935 to be used in pilgrimages to Our Lady of Perpetual Help. The gift followed the plan of Pope Pius the Ninth who spread the devotion to the Icon to the whole world with the efforts of the Redemptorists Order. The original icon had been restored and moved the Church of Saint Alphonsus Liguori located in Rome. From the first procession, the icon and later copies icon have assisted with prayers which have resulted in miracles, healings, and consolations around the world. Many have occurred during the pilgrimages to Mount St. Macrina.

Look at the icon as it passes in procession or in the shrine. In the story of the icon, the child Jesus leaps into Mary's arms for protection. His sandal barely hangs on as he is held at the heart of the Mother of God. Above the Mother of God and the infant Jesus, the Archangels Michael and Gabriel circle above similar to shiny ornaments which parents hang above a child's crib today. However, normally we would not hang ornaments which the Archangel Michael with lances and sponges and Gabriel with a three bar cross and nails. Maybe the Addams Family would, but as with Jesus it would scare a little child. The items are the symbols of the passion, death, and resurrection of Jesus.

The story of the icon holds the plan of salvation from the birth of Jesus to his Crucifixion. Our Lady's hand points to Jesus as a way of telling us this is the path to our salvation. She guides our prayers to her Son, Who can grant whatever is good for us.

As with each Pilgrimage, we ask for what we need. We offer special prayers to Our Lady of Perpetual Help to protect us this year from the continuing pandemic. We pray that our nation and church be healed from division and unrest. And, we pray each of us to be healed and protected in the coming year.

A message delivered by Sister Susan Sisko, Provincial, Sisters of St. Basil the Great, following the Hierarchical Divine Liturgy at the 87th annual Pilgrimage in Honor of Our Lady of Perpetual Help.

Glory to Jesus Christ!

It seems I was just welcoming you a few hours ago and already it’s going to be time to say goodbye.

Once again, we thank you for being present. We thank you for being among us through these “showers of blessings” that we’ve been having throughout the day.

But regardless of the weather, it’s good for us to be here. It’s good for us to be together. All of us; as a church, as the people of God, as the Sisters of St. Basil, as our Hierarchical Clergy and all our wonderful Faithful.

We needed this. We needed this Pilgrimage; we needed to come together as a group of people to pray and to celebrate that faith that we hold so dear.

In our Church, we say when we want to say goodbye, “S’bohom,” “Go with God.”

But you came with God. We’re here with God. And you’ll be leaving with God because that same God and His Loving Mother, with His Gentle Protectress, never leaves our side. Never.

So, when I say “Bohom,” what I mean is may your journey, wherever you go in this next year, may that journey always be with God and with our Blessed Mother. May that same journey bring you back here to Mount Macrina and, as (Archbishop William) said, without masks.

May we come together next year to celebrate our faith, to celebrate our love for each other, to celebrate our Church and to celebrate all those things that bring us as a people together.

Glory to Jesus Christ!
“Showers of blessings”

Our Lady of Perpetual Help, as Holy Father Pius XI requested of the Sisters.

Archbishop William Skurla, during his Hierarchical Divine Liturgy homily, said pilgrims continue to need Our Lady’s help.

“With each Pilgrimage, we come with our needs and we pray to Our Lady of Perpetual Help to intercede with her Son to grant what we need.”

Archbishop William said as work continued to prepare for this year’s Pilgrimage, the reason for choosing the theme, “Mother of Perpetual Help, Our Gentle Protectress,” was obvious.

“We need protection from the pandemic, struggles in our country and church, and the floods and winds of the past month. We continue to need Our Icon of Perpetual Help which is carried in the processions during the Pilgrimage.”

He said the original Icon of Our Lady of Perpetual Help was painted — or “written” — in the Byzantine style on the island of Crete.

It is believed to have originated in the 13th century but may be much older.

It was transferred to Rome by a merchant in 1499 and later to the Church of San Mateo where it was kept for three centuries.

“Our processional Icon was presented by Pope Pius the Eleventh to Bishop Takach in 1935 to be used in pilgrimages to Our Lady of Perpetual Help. The gift followed the plan of Pope Pius the Ninth who spread the devotion to the Icon to the whole world with the efforts of the Redemptorists Order.”

In consultation with local county CDC/health department officials, this year’s Pilgrimage did have some limitations:

All liturgical services took place at the Shrine Altar and there were no overnight accommodations of the grounds of Mount St. Macrina.
Pilgrims were also asked to wear masks when entering indoor shrines, as well as buildings such as the Religious Gift Shop, House of Prayer and restroom facilities.

87TH ANNUAL PILGRIMAGE IN HONOR OF OUR LADY OF PERPETUAL HELP
“MOTHER OF PERPETUAL HELP, OUR GENTLE PROTECTRESS”
SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 2021
MOUNT ST. MACRINA, UNIONTOWN, PA.

SS. Peter and Paul Byzantine Catholic Church in Braddock, Pa. celebrated its 125th anniversary on Sept. 26, 2021. While researching information to include in the anniversary book, some special photos were shared from the family photo album of the late Father Julius D. Grigassy, D.D., pastor of the church from 1925-59.

Father Grigassy was born in 1886 in the village of Kajdanovo and was a highly-educated theologian, receiving a Doctor of Divinity degree from the University of Budapest in 1913. He and his wife, Yolanda Mary Kustan, arrived in America in 1924 with their five children: Julius, Magdalene, Eugene, Martha, and Nicholas.

In addition to serving as pastor of Saints Peter and Paul Church, Father Grigassy was an influential church leader within what was then called the Greek Catholic Exarchate, serving as Secretary to Bishop Basil Takach and as Head of the Matrimonial Tribunal. Later he was appointed as Tribunal Vicar and Consultant to Bishop Nicholas Elko. He also operated a print shop at the church that produced prayer books, catechisms, ecclesiastical calendars, and other items that are still in use to this day.

Franciscan Father Daniel Grigassy is currently the pastor of Saint Bonaventure Parish in Paterson, New Jersey and is the grandson of Father Julius D. Grigassy. Father Dan kindly shared his family photos of his grandfather’s pastorate in Braddock, some of which we thought would be of interest to Byzantine Catholic World readers.

The first retreat for Greek Catholic priests was held during September 14 to 18, 1942 at Saint Paul’s Retreat House in Pittsburgh. This photo captures 38 priests and Bishop Takach as they posed for this historic event.

Another wonderful photo is called “Panis in Uniontown,” a photo of 14 priests’ wives gathered together at Mount Saint Macrina in Uniontown during the 1940s, most likely during the annual Pilgrimage. Pani Yolanda Kustan Grigassy is seated in the front row, second from right. Unfortunately, the others in this photo are not identified.

So many of us wish we had photos of our ancestors from the “Old Country.” The Grigassy family is fortunate enough to have several, including the family’s passport, which is a fascinating historical document and provides an idea of what our ancestors’ passports must have looked like. Note that husband, wife, and all five children are included on the same passport.

Another photo from Europe includes Father Grigassy, his wife, two children, and his mother or mother-in-law, sitting outdoors.

Also found during church research was the enclosed article from the Catholic Advance newspaper of Wichita, Kansas, dated Jan. 15, 1943. The article is a very favorable review of Father Grigassy’s writings and compilations, from a Roman Catholic perspective. The article’s author examines the latest publication, The Epistles and Gospels, and states that “a pious Greek Catholic would get an extraordinary knowledge of the New Testament by carefully following his liturgy.”

The Epistles and Gospels, compiled by Father Grigassy, who is secretary to Bishop Basil Takach, Exarch of the Pittsburgh Greek diocese, is a book in English. The Greek Church has its own calendar of feasts and there are Gospels not only for the Divine Liturgy or Mass, but also for Matins, Vespers, etc. An interesting thing is the presentation of the Gospel for the Easter Divine Liturgy in five languages—Greek, Latin, Old Slavonic, Rumanian, and Hungarian. The Gospel is divided into twelve short books and for each there are Gospels in several languages and in English, or in English in several languages, so that even if one is not fluent in Greek or Latin, one can still use the Gospel for the liturgy.

All in all, one of the Latin rites, examining this book, is struck by the thought that a pious Greek Catholic would get an extraordinary knowledge of the New Testament by carefully following his liturgy.

Every time we open the Ritual us Rūmānicus we are newly amazed because of the number of scriptural blessings instituted by the Church for every conceivable thing. The Byzantine rite is shown by Father Grigassy’s compilation to be as all-embracing in supplying religious needs.

Welcoming Father Robert

by Mary Caryl Planiczki
St. Elias, Munhall, Pa.

St. Elias welcomed Father Robert Pipta, rector of SS. Cyril and Methodius Seminary, in Pittsburgh, Pa., and seminarians Thomas and Tyler to Divine Liturgy on Sept. 12.

Prayers are with these young men as they discern Christ’s calling in their lives.

May God grant them a blessed and productive academic year.
In the Gospel of St. John, at the Last Supper, our Lord taught the disciples that the foundation of his message was to bring the human race into unity: “I pray not for them alone, but also for those who will believe in me through their word, so that they may all be one, as you, Father, are in me and I in you, that they also may be in us, that the world may believe that you sent me” (John 17:20-21). We have been created in the image of God, and God is one in a unity so powerful and complete that we may say, “God is love” (1 John 4:16). Jesus told us that “If you love me, you will keep my commandments” (John 14:15) and his commandment is found in the Gospel of St. Matthew, “be perfect, just as your heavenly Father is perfect” (Matthew 5:48).

This perfection consists in being in unity with one another in love, as again St. John explains, “Beloved, if God so loved us, we also must love one another. No one has ever seen God. Yet, if we love one another, God remains in us, and his love is brought to perfection in us” (1 John 4:11-12). It is clear from what God has revealed that this is more than just tolerance of one another, more than just a compromise of ideologies, more than rugged individualism that avoids conflicts, but it is being in God’s image, of living in that one image of God, and God is one in all of us.

In many ways in his gospel message, Jesus taught us how we were to be united.

In the Anaphora: Unity

THE ANAPHORA: UNITY

by Archpriest David M. Petras

In God’s life within us, “You shall love the Lord, your God, with all your heart, with all your soul, and with all your mind. This is the greatest and the first commandment. The second is like it: You shall love your neighbor as yourself” (Matthew 22:37-39). This union in love admitted of no exceptions. “You have heard that it was said, ‘You shall love your neighbor and hate your enemy.’ But I say to you, love your enemies, and pray for those who persecute you” (Matthew 5:44-45). Certainly, economic or political ideologies, which attempt to divide us into classes or classes of tribes, cannot take precedence over the commandment of love, as St. Paul pointed out, “There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither slave nor free person, there is not male and female; for you are all one in Christ Jesus” (Galatians 3:28). The same basic unity of all humanity was also taught by our Lord. This is the reason for the parable of the Good Samaritan. When the “scholar of the law” asked Jesus, “Who is my neighbor” (Luke 10:29), Jesus replied with the story of the man who was the victim of robbers. He was not helped by the ones you would expect, the priest or levite, but instead by a foreigner and heretic, a hated Samaritan (Luke 10:29-37), revealing that we are one human race when we help, love and support one another despite race or tribe.

In the celebration of the Liturgy, we are certainly called to form one community united in God. Our Lord said this was necessary for the sacrifice, “if you bring your gift to the altar, and there recall that your brother has anything against you, leave your gift there at the altar, go first and be reconciled with your brother, and then come and offer your gift” (Matthew 5:23-24). St. John Chrysostom said this was the reason for the Kiss of Peace in the Liturgy. Just after the priest brings the gifts of bread and wine to the Holy Table, the deacon says to the people, “Let us love one another.” St. John observes that “precisely while the very gift is lying there, when the sacrifice is already beginning, he sends you at that precise time to be reconciled to your brother. Neither after removing nor before presenting the gift, but precisely while it lies before you, you are to run to your brother” (The Gospel of Matthew, Homily 16.9). Though it may not be common today to actually exchange the kiss of peace physically, this is what the Liturgy is about. At the beginning of the Liturgy, the deacon asks us to pray, “for the unity of the holy Churches of God, and for the union of all.” This is rightly a petition for all Christians in the universal Church, but it may also apply to the people present in the praying community, that we may be united in heart and soul. The recitation of the Creed is immediately joined to the kiss of peace, not for judgment or condemnation of others, but that we may worship in the unity of one basic faith.

We may now see this in the anaphora. Our eucharistic prayer ends with a doxology, our glorification of God, who has done wondrous works for our salvation, especially through his cross and resurrection, and in this doxology we express our unity, “And grant that with one voice and one heart we may glorify and praise your most honored and magnificent name.” We then seal this prayer with our solemn assent by singing “Amen,” the Hebrew word for “would that it be so.” This has been the essential mark of the Christian community from the beginning. The words of this doxology are taken from the description of the oneness of the community manifested by the earliest followers of Christ. The Acts of the Apostles describes this: “The community of believers was of one heart and mind, and no one claimed that any of his possessions was his own, but they had everything in common. With great power the apostles bore witness to the resurrection of the Lord Jesus, and great favor was accorded them all” (Acts 4:32-33). When we celebrate the Liturgy, we bear witness to the resurrection. Christians, therefore, were a community of love and care for one another, “There was no needy person among them, for those who owned property or houses would sell them, bring the proceeds of the sale, and put them at the feet of the apostles, and they were distributed to each according to need” (Acts 4:34-35). We must have the faith today that praying the Anaphora can bring us together to be of “one voice and one heart” in our Lord.
